A New Tourism Destination Unfolds in A'Ibom

Akwai Ibom State is opening a new chapter in its tourism development with the advent of the ARISE Palm Resort, a landmark leisure destination that has risen from a former gully erosion site once considered dangerous and abandoned. The project marks a significant transformation, turning a long-standing environmental threat into a centre of relaxation, economic opportunity and renewed pride, and further positioning the state as an emerging tourism hub in Nigeria.

The site, which for years posed a serious threat to lives and property, was widely feared and avoided. Rampant gully erosion swallowed land and destroyed buildings, leaving behind loss, pain and insecurity. The area was regarded as abandoned wasteland, unsafe for habitation or investment, and largely written off as beyond redemption.

However, upon assuming office, Governor Umo Eno saw possibility where others saw destruction. Guided by his ARISE Agenda, the Governor took decisive action to reclaim the ravine, choosing to transform a symbol of danger into one of hope, renewal and sustainable development for the people of the State.

Today, the reclaimed environment has been reshaped into a serene and attractive destination featuring calm waters, lush greenery and modern infrastructure. What was once an eyesore and safety hazard has become a welcoming space that reflects the power of purposeful governance and strategic intervention.

ARISE Palm Resort offers a wide range of facilities designed to serve families, tourists, business travelers and leisure seekers. These include a children's playground, golf course and golf house, luxury villas and guest apartments, artificial lakes with floating bars, indoor and outdoor sports facilities, a gym and wellness centre, event and conference halls, restaurants offering local and continental cuisine, shopping and leisure outlets, landscaped gardens, walkways, as well as security, medical and ample parking facilities.

Beyond its aesthetic appeal, the resort is already delivering economic benefits to the State. It is creating employment opportunities, attracting visitors, stimulating local businesses and supporting Akwa Ibom's drive to diversify its economy. The project also strengthens tourism as a viable revenue source while reducing overdependence on government-led income streams.

More than a leisure facility, ARISE Palm Resort represents a powerful message of hope and transformation. By reclaiming damaged land and giving it new life and purpose, Governor Eno has not only changed a location but reshaped a narrative, leaving behind a lasting legacy of visionary leadership and sustainable development for Akwa Ibom State
